Masseria Mirogallo

Tomato Sauce with Chili Pepper

Diavolicchi peppers add a spicy kick to passata (fresh tomato purée) that has been slowly cooked with extra virgin olive oil until silky.

Uses: Toss with cheese ravioli for a quick dinner. Try pairing with warm polenta and grilled Italian sausages.

Masseria Mirogallo

Tomato Sauce with Sweet Peppers

Passata (fresh tomato purée) is slowly cooked with extra virgin olive oil & blended with heirloom sweet peppers from Basilicata.

Uses: Add a splash of white wine & use as a braise for chicken thighs (similar to chicken cacciatore) or to poach eggs.

Masseria Mirogallo

Tomato Sauce with Capers & Olives

Capers, olives, and garlic shine in this gutsy, luscious sauce made from passata (fresh tomato purée) slowly cooked with extra virgin olive oil.

Uses: Use as a sauce for grilled or poached fish. Spread over pizza dough and top with anchovy fillets to make a pizza napoletana.

Masseria Mirogallo

Tomato Sauce with Artichokes

Sweet passata (fresh tomato purée) is slowly cooked with extra virgin olive oil, then harmoniously blended with pieces of slightly bitter artichoke.

Uses: Spoon over crostini and drizzle with great extra virgin olive oil for a showstopping appetizer. Brush over warmed focaccia.

Masseria Mirogallo

Tomato Sauce with Basil

Fresh, aromatic basil is slowly cooked with passata (fresh tomato purée) and extra virgin olive oil to create this deeply flavored, classic sauce.

Uses: Use as a base for minestrone soup. Spoon over meatballs or crispy breaded chicken & top with freshly-grated parmesan.
